

THE E.F.M. LAW COMPANY, P.C.
TERMS OF USE

The following Terms of Use (“Terms, Conditions”) govern the use, consumption, or any other form of review of the information, content, images, and other information on the website: www.efmlawcompany.com (“Website, Site, Application, App, Software). By using, viewing, or otherwise consuming anything from the Site, you agree to be bound by and heed these Terms. Do not use the Site if you do not agree to these Terms. Further, you agree to abide by the laws of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the United States.

Note, the use of “you, user, your,” and similar second-person pronouns refer to the Site viewer, customer, or gratuitous consumer of information, documents, images, videos or any other content provided on the website. The use of “we, us, our, Website, Site, Application” and similar first-person plural pronouns refer to the E.F.M. Law Company, a Professional Corporation (“EFM Law Co.”) and/or www.efmlawcompany.com. These definitions apply to these entire Terms, as well as the Terms of Service, Privacy Policy, Copyright Reservation, and Full Disclaimer that appears at the bottom of each of the www.efmlawcompany.com webpages. Those documents and their terms are incorporated by reference as if fully restated herein.

As these Terms are reviewed and revised periodically and without any notice to you, all users agree they shall take on an affirmative duty to review these Terms periodically, regularly, and frequently. Again, DO NOT USE THIS SITE IF YOU DO NOT AGREE TO THESE TERMS OF USE.

The EFM Law Co. via the Website provides brief legal information on topics of particular interest and relevance to the Foreign Service Community. That is Foreign Service Officers serving abroad, their families, and anyone else who finds him or herself involved with the Foreign Service such that similar legal issues arise one or more times. The Company provides these services exclusively on the cloud, so there is no program or application to download. Rather, the information and site are entirely hosted by a third-party server (Weebly.com). Documents and forms may be downloaded therefrom, all of which are currently (9/12/2014) available free of charge. As such, none of your inputs or use of the information provided or we review forms/documents at all—not for completeness, correctness, logic, or any other reason.

The efmlawcompany.com is not a law firm. It cannot and does not perform any services performed by an attorney. As such, THE EFMLAWCOMPANY.COM, IS NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR THE ADVICE OF AN ATTORNEY. Conversely, the EFM Law Co., P.C. is a law firm but it only performs services performed by an attorney AFTER an initial (real-time) consultation, execution of a written engagement agreement, and payment of a retainer/fee. In other words, if you have not spoken with an agent of the Company via phone, Skype, or Adobe Connect, accepted the terms of the engagement agreement, and paid a retainer or fee via PayPal or Intuit invoicing, you are not a client of the EFM Law Co. and neither the Company nor its agents is your attorney. If you have completed such steps and the Company has agreed to be your attorney, no information shall be transferred via the www.efmlawcompany.com website. All communications from there onward will be privileged and confidential between the client and the Company unless the client waives or discloses that information to a non-confidential source.

Great efforts are made to comply with current Virginia and U.S. Laws both in our services and the information we provide. However, the law changes rapidly and attorneys cannot always keep pace or be absolutely sure how the courts will treat new issues until a case has been published, disseminated, and widely discussed. Furthermore, our information and services are relatively widely tailored, local court rules or individual states may vary their rules and treatment of particular issues such that our general information will not serve in that jurisdiction. Accordingly, very particular and individualized matters should be researched in-depth by your own individual attorney practicing before that jurisdiction for more certainty as to your concern. Therefore, if you need legal advice for your specific problem, or if your specific problem is too complex to be addressed by our general online information, you should formally consult, contract, and retain the EFM Law Co, P.C. or consult a locally licensed attorney in your area.

As previously stated, this Website and its Applications are not intended to create any attorney-client relationship. Your use of www.efmlawcompany.com does not and will not create an attorney-client relationship between you and EFM Law Co. or the efmlawcompany.com. The sole exception to this limitation occurs AFTER you complete an initial (real-time) consultation, accept the terms of an engagement agreement, and pay the retainer/fee. AFTER AND ONLY AFTER THAT OCCURS IS AN ATTORNEY-CLIENT RELATIONSHIP FORMED BETWEEN YOU AND THE EFM LAW CO., P.C., AND ONLY TO THE EXTENT PROVIDED IN THE ENGAGEMENT AGREEMENT—WHICH IS ALSO A CONTRACT.

Outside of the lawyer-client relationship, the EFM Law Co. and efmlawcompany.com continue to respect your privacy and control of what little personal information We collect. A complete statement of Our current Privacy Policy can be found Here: http://www.efmlawcompany.com/privacy-policy.html

- I. Propriety of Materials. The www.efmlawcompany.com website is owned and operated by the EFM Law Company, P.C., a Virginia Professional Corporation. The Company owns all original work, forms, images, layouts, and trade dress as well. None of these materials may be reproduced or sold without the prior written consent of the Company.

- II. Authorization to Download. All forms and information is currently available free of charge. Consequently, it may be downloaded and used for personal purposes many times. However, no user is authorized to overload or attempt to crash the host or website by over-using/abusing the free download privileges.
 - a. Users are authorized to download documents and forms for their personal, non-commercial purposes. The forms and information may not be sold/resold.
- III. Third-Party Hyperlinks. There are many links to third-party websites in the text and on some images throughout the Website. The Company has no control over the content, programs, information, or applicable policies/terms & conditions on those sites. The EFM Law Co. takes no responsibility for anything provided on those sites or their policies, especially as it relates to the collection and use of your data. No ownership is claimed over the information or intellectual property provided by third-party sites as accessed by Our links.
- IV. Licensed to Use Our Site and Information Thereon. On our Website, through our Programs and Downloadable Forms, and (in the future) through certain partners, We offer self-help research documents, fill-in-the-blank forms, and demonstration forms and schedules. You will be representing yourself in your own matters by consuming this information and these forms. The Terms of Service and Terms of Use govern your consumption and use of these forms and information.
 - a. Again, the sole exception to this self-help limitation is when you complete a PRIOR real-time consultation, accept the terms of an engagement agreement, and pay the retainer or fee to the EFM Law Co., P.C. AFTER AND ONLY AFTER THAT OCCURS IS AN ATTORNEY-CLIENT RELATIONSHIP FORMED BETWEEN YOU AND THE EFM LAW CO., P.C., AND ONLY TO THE EXTENT PROVIDED IN THE ENGAGEMENT AGREEMENT—WHICH IS ALSO A CONTRACT.
 - b. You are granted a limited personal license to use the forms and information provided on our site.
- V. Resale of Forms Prohibited. The resale of forms and self-help information/documents on Our site is prohibited. Unless expressly agreed otherwise, all users acknowledge and agree that they have no right to edit, copy, modify, reproduce, derive, reverse engineer, enhance, change or in any way exploit any of the forms provided on the Site in any manner. The general exception to this limitation is for permitted modifications while filling out the forms and schedules provided for your authorized use.

- a. No user/consumer shall not remove any copyright notice from any form or schedule.

VI. Arbitration Agreement

- a. Summary. You agree to resolve any disputes arising from the use of this Site or consumption of Our materials/information by binding arbitration conducted by the American Arbitration Association. Information about this process can be found here: www.adr.org/aaa. As such, you agree to waive your right to a trial by jury in a court of the U.S. or any state/territory/district. The sole exception to this is if Website users would like to proceed individually to small claims court within the Commonwealth of Virginia. However, users agree they waive any right to “remove” cases from small claims to the General District or Circuit Court or Federal Court.
- b. Notice of Dispute. In the case a dispute arises, please informally notify us via email: efm.lawyer@gmail.com. All attempts will be made to resolve the issue informally. The AAA provides notice forms for formal disputes, which must be followed/used for submitting disputes to us.
- c. Filing Fees. Website users agree to pay all initial filing fees should they determine they have a dispute that cannot be resolved informally and that must proceed to arbitration. The complaining party shall pay these filing fees and such fees do not constitute an expense recoverable by the prevailing party.
- d. Settlement Minimums. If at any time either party offers to settle, the amount of such offer shall be submitted to the arbitrator only following his written resolution of the issues before him. Such offer amounts as well as the circumstances surrounding such offers shall be available to the arbitrator when he is making his award.
- e. Attorney’s Fees. The losing party shall pay the attorney’s fees of the prevailing party. The arbitrator shall declare which is the prevailing and which is the losing. The arbitrator may determine that neither party prevailed, in which case both parties shall pay their own fees and costs.
- f. Injunctive Relief & Individual, Not Class Actions Only. By proceeding to use this Website, all users agree that disputes or arbitrations shall only be conducted individually, and not as class actions. This agreed limitation applies to decisions to go to small claims court instead of arbitration.
- g. Appeal. Appeals may only be taken to the American Arbitration Association and by means of their procedures, limits, and time restrictions.

h. Changes in Arb Policy. Any changes to this Arbitration Agreement/Dispute resolution policy will only apply from the date on which it was made forward.

VII. Forums and Blog Responses.

a. Rights & Responsibilities in Content (C). Forum and Blog users are responsible for their own posts/content. The EFM Law Co. does not adopt or endorse any user perspective or content provided online. Users' posts of such content online imply warranty as to the intellectual propriety of information.

b. Others R&R in Content. This website is periodically reviewed for information provided by users. Infringements of copyright or intellectual property rights found thereon shall be removed within 24 hours or upon responsible notice to efm.lawyer@gmail.com.

VIII. Warranty Disclaimers (UCC). NO WARRANTY, EXPRESSED OR IMPLIED IS PROVIDED AS TO THE INFORMATION OR FORMS PROVIDED ON THIS SITE. ALL WARRANTIES ARE HERBY EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMED.
